Tokyo Borderless Theatre Project 2025

トーキョー
ボーダレス
シアター
プロジェクト2025

Join a group of people from all over the world—each with their own languages, traditions, foods, clothing, and beliefs—as they come together to share their thoughts, ideas, and experiences. Through open conversations and creative collaboration, the participants build a new performance together.

This is a great chance to explore creating theatre through both movement and words. Whether you're looking to express yourself, share your ideas, or connect with others, we welcome you to be part of this experience.

No theater experience?
No problem — everyone is welcome!

There are two courses,
each with a different theme and different training days.
It is OK to apply for both or only one of them.

“Door of Memory” course

There might be times in your life in Tokyo when you suddenly recall your roots and memories of your hometown. The trigger may be a sound, a smell, or a landscape. Such things are called “doors” here. “Door to Door” is a workshop and performance project in which people with roots in other countries find “doors” in their daily lives and express their roots through theater. It is a workshop and performance project to share the roots of the participants.

Introduction ▶ Expression ▶ Practice ▶ Performance

“Exploring Ikebukuro” course

We will walk around the town of Ikebukuro with everyone, talking and listening to their memories of Ikebukuro, and discovering a new Ikebukuro. We will walk, talk, and listen to each other to create a map of our memories. We will create a play while conversing with everyone! We will use not only Japanese but also participants' native languages.

Recommended for people who live in Ikebukuro, frequent Ikebukuro, or have fond memories of Ikebukuro.
